

Press release

Tuesday 27 September 2011

THE FEATHERED NEST COUNTRY INN IN, OXFORDSHIRE NAMED AA PUB OF THE YEAR ENGLAND 2011

---

The Feathered Nest Inn in Nether Westcote received nationwide recognition last night when it was named AA Pub of the Year 2011, sponsored by Karcher, at the AA Hospitality Awards 2011 – 2012, hosted by Sophie Raworth, at the London Hilton on Park Lane.

Tony and Amanda Timmer, Proprietors, The Feathered Nest Inn, who received the award in front of an audience of over 700 members of the hospitality industry, commented, “We are ecstatic and over the moon. There are many worthy establishments within the UK, and to be chosen to receive this prestigious award in recognition of all the hard work from our team – is truly an honour - a dream come true.”

The Feathered Nest Inn is a Country Pub, Restaurant and Inn, set in the picturesque village of Nether Westcote and nestled in the heart of The Cotswolds, with marvelous views over the Evenlode Valley. Originally a Malthouse, the thoughtfully refurbished inn offers a cosy, warm and welcoming atmosphere. The Nest also serves as a convenient base from which to explore the local quaint and charming villages as well as the rural surroundings whilst enjoying good food, a good pint and warm hospitality.

AA Hotel Services manager, Simon Numphud, said, “This delightful former Malthouse is a worthy winner of the England AA Pub of the Year. It has been impressively renovated to a high standard by its new owners and the result is a gastronomic pub. The food is a delight, there’s a great range of ales, strong wine list and friendly service.”

The AA Hospitality Awards bring together some of the most influential people within the hospitality industry to recognise the outstanding accomplishments of high-achieving AA establishments and individuals.

Pubs and restaurants win AA awards